Melissa Rivers' Spectacular Wedding

At Home with Joely Fisher in Jackson Hole

Preston Bailey had decked out the space with 50 silvery-white birch trees, many arching over the aisle, festooned with lush clusters of white roses tied to branches and trunks. Heightening the wintry effect, lighting maestro Bentley Meeker had bathed the room in an ice-blue glow. But the pièce de résistance was the altar, blanketed with 25,000 white roses and lisianthus as well as bunches of lily of the valley and white hydrangeas that, in the sparkling light, resembled drifts of fresh-fallen snow. "This is like a dream," whispered Blaine Trump, dressed for the occasion in a fur-trimmed, fit-for-a-czarina Russian-style gown.

For Melissa Rivers' wedding to John Endicott, blue lighting and white birches metamorphosed New York's historic Plaza Hotel into a Russian winter's tale.
